The Peace Team

Israel, Palestine

Israeli and Palestinian kids brought together by football

The Peace Team is made of young participants of two organisations with a long track record in collaboration: Al Quds Association for Democracy and Dialogue (AFDD) and The Peres Center for Peace (PCFP). Together they run the project 'Twinned Peace Football Schools', in which Palestinian and Israeli children aged 6 to 14 meet separately for football training and peace education, then come together for mixed activities that focus on conflict resolution, dialogue and understanding using football as a common language.

Both organisations aim to encourage mutual understanding and peace between Palestinians and Israelis and believe in dialogue as the only solution to conflict. While The Peres Center works with Israeli and Arab communities in Israel, the Al Quds Association coordinates the programme in Palestinian territories.
