Boosting confidence and employment opportunities for homeless people

Street League was founded in 2001 to provide homeless and dispossessed persons with one of life's most important elements - fun. The organisation began with a street football league for homeless people in London, with a few phone calls to homeless hostels in the area quickly resulting in a 16-team tournament. Since then, demand for the organisation's services has continued to grow.

Street League uses football in combination with education and training programmes to transform the lives of its participating members. Through initiatives such as twinning sessions with local companies, the organisation helps build confidence, improve health, extend social networks, and develop participants' skills towards long-term education, employment and independence.
